August 10, 2016
Confidential & Proprietary
Submitted by: Sara Uhlig and Victoria Gonzalez

Executive Summary

Thank you for providing The Hawm Foundation the opportunity to present MindUP™ our evidence based, CASEL accredited SEL and Positive Education curriculum. Our goal is to help children thrive in learning and in life, by providing a framework teaching vital and valuable SEL skills that will enhance their resilience for a lifetime.

We are committed to working with Washoe County School District in Reno, NV to ensure that your teachers, supporting professional staff and administrators are trained and supported in the MindUP™ framework so that every child in your school will have the opportunity to:

- Understand how their brains work and how their brains influence thinking and behavior;
- Increase self-regulatory and self-management skills for greater concentration and focus;
- Learn practices to reduce stress, calming their bodies and preparing their minds to learn;
- Practice pro-social skills like perspective taking, optimism and gratitude that will help them build better relationships with themselves and others.

Research shows that children using MindUP™ are less disruptive and are better engaged in learning — building personal resiliency and contributing more positively to the overall classroom and school culture.

Implementation of the MindUP™ Program

We will keep in touch by phone after the initial training and will schedule follow-up meetings or a group training throughout the school year to provide coaching, mentoring and adjustments to the program. We like to include all school personnel in the on-site workshop to help develop a mindful culture throughout the school. We would need your commitment and signed contract no later than August 30, 2016 in order for implementation to be scheduled for the school year that commences Fall 2016.

Year 3 Sustaining MindUP™ in the Classroom

We have agreed upon the following support model for WCSD's Year 3 support plan:

*One (1) 3-day "Train-the-Trainer" workshop (5 participants @ $2,500 pp)

* Four (4) leadership visits to support successful implementation (including but not limited to: refresher workshops, regional training, coaching and mentoring, WCSD trainer support)

* Waived fee for DP for 2016/2017 ONLY (New interactive DP to be released at the end of 2016 on a different platform. There will be a renewal cost for 2017/2018 school year)

Program Fees

In principle our fee schedule is based on Out of Pocket Costs to deliver the program (trainer travel, curriculum guides and chimes) and a MindUP™ Licensing Fee for the program content. The total for delivering the program to Washoe County School District this year would be a total of $20,500.00.

So Let's Get Started!

We are grateful for the opportunity to continue our partnership with Washoe County School District. Please direct any questions to Sara Uhlig via email Sara.Uhlig@thehawnfoundation.org, or telephone at (786) 888-1705.

MindUP™ Implementation Proposal for Washoe County School District
Beacon School Implementation Model
Reno, Nevada

June 25, 2015
Confidential & Proprietary
Submitted by: Maria Hersey, Ph.D.

I. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Thank you for providing The Hawn Foundation the opportunity to present our CASEL accredited, preferred SEL curriculum, MindUP™. We are committed to our continued collaboration with Washoe County School District to ensure all children have the opportunity to gain increased self-regulatory skills, ability to focus, and an expanded understanding of how their brains work, unlocking their potential to optimize their abilities to contribute to their own personal and academic success – and that of their peers. Research shows that children and educators using MindUP™ increase their overall wellbeing while becoming more optimistic, less distracted, are better engaged in learning and building resiliency with pro-social behavioral outcomes for students and improvements to overall school culture.

MindUP™ offers simple strategies for helping students focus their attention, improve their self-awareness, self-regulation, build resilience to stress and develop a positive mind-set in both school settings and life. Our goal is to help improve student outcomes and to ensure our MindUP™ SEL program helps enhance existing programs.

II. RECOMMENDED IMPLEMENTATION: MindUP™ Beacon Schools (5 elementary & middle school sites; location to be determined by the district office).

The proposed date for the first MindUP™ Professional Development Beacon School, which will provide on-site professional development for all staff members at the selected school sites, is to be September 2015. The follow-up training is scheduled four to five months later and includes the delivery of our Parent Workshop. The Parent workshop provides an opportunity to inform parents about the benefits of MindUP™ and provides information to enhance and support their child's learning thereby enhancing the home-school connection. The inclusion of all school personnel in the on-site workshop session helps to ensure the development of a mindful culture throughout school. Planning would need to be underway and contracted no later than July 15, 2015 in order for implementation to occur in September 2015.

III. A 12-MONTH SUSTAINABLE SUPPORT PLAN

The science of the implementation model that has been created for MindUP™ ensures that the program on-boards with fidelity and success. Implementation is built upon a five-part model that incorporates a 12-month support plan beginning with:

- A professional development day known as "An Introduction to MindUP™ 2.1" is delivered in the form of a four to six hour comprehensive, on-site workshop, reviewing the 15 lessons and four pillars of the program with practical examples and implementation strategies. The session offers opportunities for planning including a review of classroom activities and strategies, which demonstrates alignment to academic disciplines and examples of best educational practice.
- One-year of continued access via our proprietary, custom web-based learning platform where MindUP™ facilitators and other educators engage with best practices, teacher tips, a robust e-library and opportunities for on-line collaboration through our password-protected site.
- At the four or fifth month mark, a follow-up "MindUP™ Extension Day" that consists of a second on-site professional development day which extends the learning from the initial workshop at the site conducted to ensure sustained implementation progress. This customized session provides teachers with an opportunity to identify successes and focuses on the implementation, integration and deeper exploration of the overarching concepts and content. This on-site professional development offering also provides an opportunity to firmly embed MindUP™ principles and practices, address implementation challenges and provide the appropriate support to staff, which may include coaching or mentoring.
- A one to two hour, "MindUP™ Parent Workshop" is offered free of charge to interested parents. A take home parent's manual is provided to help guide the at home practice of SEL and MindUP™. The Parent Workshop must be scheduled in conjunction with the second on-site visit and cannot be a stand-alone event.

MindUP™ Proposal for Washoe County School District

Proposal for 2014-2015 Academic Year

We are delighted that you are considering implementing The Hawn Foundation's signature program, MindUP™, the CASEL accredited, evidence-based curriculum fostering social and emotional awareness, enhancing psychological well-being, and promoting academic success. We are committed to working with you to ensure your students are provided knowledge about their brains and their amazing potential with a strong foundation in social and emotional literacy. Our team is dedicated to serving teachers and equally excited about supporting school and district administrators and support staff at Washoe County School District.

Why MindUP™?

MindUP™ offers simple strategies for helping children focus their attention, improve their self-regulation skills, build resilience to stress, and develop a positive mind-set in both school and life. The essence of MindUP™ is embodied in the idea of the Optimistic Classroom – a place where all children have the opportunity to achieve their full potential. The outcome of this enhanced awareness is children whose knowledge and understanding of their impulses, thoughts, feelings and behavior enhances their confidence, pleasure and sense of ownership of their own learning.

The Hawn Foundation will provide Washoe County School District with a 12-month, sustainable support plan. The science of the implementation model that has been created for MindUP™ ensures that the program on-boards with fidelity and success. Implementation is built upon a six-part model that incorporates a 12-month plan beginning with:

- A one-day comprehensive workshop for all staff. This workshop will provide direct instruction on the 15 lessons and four pillars of the curriculum with "real life" examples and implementation strategies as to "how to" roll it out in the classroom.
- 12 months of digital access via our proprietary, custom web learning destination where MindUP™ trainers and other educators share best practices, videos, teacher tips, robust library, pose questions and share information ensuring retention of core concepts. All of this abundant content is easily obtained through our password-protected site.
- A follow-up visit at the fourth or fifth month mark to insure implementation is going well and ascertain teacher satisfaction. This can either be a workshop presentation with Q&A, delving deeper into the curriculum to help firmly embed the MindUP™ practice and principles into each school's core curriculum.
- A Parent Training Workshop that must be scheduled to occur concurrently with the follow-up visit, offered free of charge to parents interested in attending, in a single two-hour session. APPENDIX D – Guidance for Completing the Evidence-based
Social and Emotional Learning (SEL) Program Summary

Describe objective of the program:

What is the program's objective? Does it explicitly define itself as an Social & Emotional Learning (SEL) program? Is the primary focus on developing problem solving, building community, developing SEL skills through instruction? In some instances, programs have social and emotional learning components but define themselves as focusing on other aspects of youth development such as bullying prevention or substance use prevention.

Describe approach program uses for social emotional development:

Does the program approach social emotional development through classroom instruction? Other programs may approach social emotional development by integrating SEL within a core academic subject. Another possibility is that a program focuses on teacher instructional practices (including instructional process and pedagogy to promote social and emotional development). Programs might use a combination of these approaches as well. Another aspect to consider is whether a program covers all of the five core competencies (self-awareness, self-management, social awareness, relationship skills and responsible decision-making)?

Effective programs provide repeated opportunities to practice new skills and behaviors, within the program and beyond, to real-life situations. Opportunities to practice in real-life situations are likely to have even more impact. Does the program provide adequate practice for students to strengthen their skills?

How does a program's approach to social and emotional development align with existing course structure and scheduling?

How it could be facilitated in different contexts (e.g., during advisory, Freshman or Senior seminar)?

How could it be integrated into courses (e.g., whether it is required or taken as an elective, whether students receive credit for participating)?

Grade levels program is appropriate for:

CASEL recommends that every student receive high-quality SEL programming across all PreK-12 grade levels. What grade levels is the program appropriate for? If a program indicates that it can be implemented for a span of grades, it is important to ask if materials are sequenced for students at different grade levels or if students in different grades participate in the same content and activities.

Program effectiveness (Evaluation Criteria 50.3 A):

CASEL recommends that schools use evidence-based programs because they have the greatest potential for achieving desired results. Various sources focus on evidence-based programs, but they each define "evidence-based" in slightly different ways. Some may have several categories of "evidence-based" (for example, "model" versus "promising" designations that distinguish programs that have shown effects in multiple studies, versus those that have shown effects in a single study). Further, some external search tools limit themselves exclusively to programs that are evidence-based, while others allow users to limit searches for this criterion.

Program costs (Evaluation Criteria 50.3 B):

The cost of an SEL program involves many different elements including materials, professional learning and support for implementation, and support for evaluation. Cost can be affected by whether or not multiple schools will be using the program. Some programs separate costs for professional learning and costs for materials, whereas other programs combine these costs. Costs may also depend on unique circumstances in a district, such as whether the district has the capacity to support training of trainers and how much professional learning staff have already experienced.

Questions to help organize conversations with program developers to determine what the cost would be in a specific school or district include:

- What is the cost of standard program materials? What are recurring costs, if any? What are ways to save on costs?
- What is the cost of professional learning? Are there any ways to save on the professional learning costs?
- Is there professional learning for coaches? What about a "training of trainers" approaches to professional learning? If so, what is the cost and time commitment?
- What are the differences in cost based on location for professional learning?

Professional learning (Evaluation Criteria 50.3 C):

Initial professional learning in implementing a particular SEL program is essential. Questions to ask with regard to professional learning include:

- How much professional learning will staff need? How much time is required? Who should attend the sessions?
- What are any prerequisites for participating in professional learning?
- What opportunities does the professional learning include for participants to practice using classroom materials and to receive feedback? To develop a plan with colleagues for implementing the program? To use strategies such as morning meetings or strategy integration into content delivery, to establish a supportive classroom learning environment?
- Currently, how prepared are staff to implement SEL effectively? How much additional professional learning and support are they likely going to need? How can their needs be met?
- How much time will teachers be provided for professional learning?

Compatibility of program's PL with District PL process (Evaluation Criteria 50.3 D):

How is the program's PL delivered? To what extent is the program's approach to professional learning compatible with the District's?

Ongoing support for implementation (Evaluation Criteria 50.3 E):

Ongoing professional learning and support is highly desirable. Question to ask include:

- After the initial staff development workshop and a period of implementation, in what ways does the program offer on-site consultation to schools to observe teachers using the program and offer feedback, facilitate group discussions about the program, and/or facilitate teachers coaching one another?
- Is there additional support that the program offers such as webinars or other web-based materials?

Tools for monitoring outcomes (Evaluation Criteria 50.3 F):

Ongoing monitoring of student outcomes is an important strategy that supports high-quality implementation. It can be helpful to note whether or not programs offer assessment tools to assist in this process. Questions to ask include:

- Does the program provide schools with on-site assistance with monitoring the program's impact on students? Do they have surveys or other means of monitoring outcomes?
- Does the program provide on-site assistance in collecting and summarizing outcomes for students?
- Does the program provide assistance in interpreting outcome data and making appropriate recommendations?

Quality of Reviewed Program Materials (Evaluation Criteria 50.3 G):

CASEL strongly recommends a careful review of program materials before any program is adopted. Most SEL program providers will allow schools to preview materials free of charge and will send sample lessons. We recommend that teachers and others who would have responsibility for using the program review these materials. Questions to ask include:

- What program materials are available for review? Is there a cost for review materials?
- How long can the school keep materials received in the mail?
- How much of the program and its materials can be viewed directly on the program developer's website?

Cultural Sensitivity and Linguistic Responsiveness (Evaluation Criteria 50.3 H):

Research in social and emotional learning, and in child development more broadly, has consistently found that children learn best when education is relevant and appropriate to their cultural and linguistic context. The same is true with regard to materials and programming for families and caregivers. This creates special challenges when selecting programs, since many schools are multicultural, with unique combinations of cultures and with different levels of acculturation. School staff, parents and students can serve as resources on the cultures and languages represented in a given school or district.

It is helpful for the SEL Leadership Team to pay careful attention to whether and how programs have made adjustments for different cultural contexts. For example, when programs indicate that they are designed for use with particular ethnic/cultural groups, or if they suggest how content or activities can be adapted for use with different groups, this is noted in comments in the program description. As part of the review of evaluations the 2013 CASEL Guide also notes which geographic and ethnic/cultural groups were represented in the study samples for each program. Questions that can be asked in relation to a program's cultural and linguistic appropriateness include:

- How does the program ensure that the language, content and activities are appropriate for the kind of community where participating schools are located?
- Has the program been evaluated with populations similar to the one in this school?
- Are there program evaluations that might provide additional information about the cultural and linguistic appropriateness of this program for different groups of students?
- Are there schools using the program in similar communities in terms of culture and languages? Can the program provider identify contacts in those schools?
- What are the demographics of the student and family population and how are they represented in the program's materials?

Ability to Integrate Program Content with Existing Curriculum (Evaluation Criteria 50.3 I):

Does the program provide guidance on integrating content with existing curriculum? If so how user-friendly is this guidance? Do they provide examples?

Ability for Differentiation of Program Delivery (Evaluation Criteria 50.3 J):

Does the program provide guidance for differentiating program delivery for students with different levels of social and emotional competencies? If so how user-friendly is this guidance? Do they provide examples?

Viability of Family Component (Evaluation Criteria 50.3 K):

How is the program's component for families? Does it seem like it would get families involved? What about establishing partnerships with families? Would it be viable to implement the family component?

Feedback from Others Implementing the Program (Evaluation Criteria 50.3 L):

Interacting with other districts and schools that have experience with the program, preferably in person, is highly desirable. Many programs will provide potential adopters with a list of schools or districts in their region that have used the program. Ideally schools can reach out to other schools or districts that are similar in terms of size and student population and located close enough to visit and observe the program being implemented. Questions to ask include:

- How may we contact colleagues who are using the program?
- How may we see the program in action?

Other considerations:

Think about the community where the school is located. What cultures and ethnicities are represented among the students and their families? What languages are spoken by families served by the school? How can decisions about SEL programs be made in a way that honors and celebrates different cultures and contexts in which students live and learn? Who are the people in the school community who can help with this process?

Some schools may want to assemble a subcommittee or team made up of parents, faculty and community stakeholders who represent the cultural perspectives in the community and ask them to help review and explore programs under consideration.
